The National Colored Press Association held its annual meeting in Louisville this week. It was organized in 1880 and comprises 120 newspapers, representing all sections of the country.

No town in an agricultural district ever attained great prosperity by handling raw material only. It must manufacture the raw material. To this manufacture cheap transportation is essential.

Union county has been noted for years for its rich resources, its fine Franklia farms, live stock, and tracts of excellent timber-lands. The Ohio Valley will place Hopkinsville in immediate close communication with this rich

Workingmen should take an espicial interest in the proposition of the Ohio Valley Railroad, as one which opens to them so many avenues of employment. They should advocate it and vote for it as a matter which concerns their daily business.

Hon. J. M. Dawson, Representativeelect from Simpson county, finds it necessary to publish a column of affidavits, refuting Republican campaign lies to the effect that he stole a mule from a negro and swindled his grandfailer out of $500. Mr. Dawson was elected, but wants to set himself right before his people. Truly we have some mighty dirty politics in Ken- McCracken tucky.

The wheat of Christian County is noted for its fine quality. Every Mon bushel of it should be ground at home in our mills which have established a high reputation for choice flour. This would secure the farmers a steady home market for their wheat. To secure this market a competing railroad is needed. Let every wheat grower in the Hopkinsville District vote for the Ohio Valley subscription.

The postmaster at Owensboro has been notified that an inspector will visit the office to ascertain whether it has the necessary qualifications for the free delivery service. The necessary qualifications are that the annual receipts of the office must aggregate $10,000 per annum and the city must have numbered houses and side walks. Owensboro claimed to be entitled to the free delivery service a year ago and she is pretty certain to get it in the near future.

The minutes of the last session o the Kentucky Press Association are out and the style in which they are gotten up is a credit not only to the efficient Secretary, Mr. Urey Wood son, but also to the Owensboro Mes senger job rooms, where the work have paid the annual fee of $100 for the present year.

This is a decrease of 1,293 from the 1884 vote, which was 13,664 for Cleveland and 9,671 for Blaine. The delegate strength of the counties in Democratic conventions will be changed as follows: Christian 8 votes instead of 10, Daviess 13 instead of 16, Hancock 3 as before, Henderson 12 instead of 11, Hopkins 8 as before, McLean 4 as before, Union 8 instead of 9, Webster 5 instead of 6. A Charming Short Story

FOR THE LOVER OF PURE SERIAL FICTION.

Dorcas Caledon, an heiress of immense wealth, is stolen from her cradle when only six months old. She is picked up and cared for by the matron of a foundli g asylum; here for years she lives, a quiet, gentle child. But after a time, for some unac-countable reason, she is taken back to her rightful home, though this fact is unknown to her. Here she is given only a menial's place, but manages to pick up a tolerable clueation. Finally, weary of her hard life, she determines to seek fortune and friends among strangers. A wise Providence guides the orphan's feet, and she finds a graces the copies a look, and she made at friend and mother in a k-ad widow who not only shelters and cares for her but resolves to unravel the story of her purcutage; this after a time is accomplished and the orphan dependent upon charity is discovered to be not only rich but of good parentage. A happy reunion follows, i.i. which Doreas, ever kind and generous, forgets none of the dear friends of the years of her adversity.

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS.

Why He Will Live Longer Than His Mel-ancholy Brother. "I remember," said an old physician In 1838 in a stage coach across the Alleghany mountains from Cumberland to the Ohio river. In the coach were two friends, young men and lawyers, who were getting out to settle in Western Pennsylvania. We became well acquainted in the long, leisurely journey. Both of my fellow-travelers were men of ability and culture; both had good breeding and kindly disposition. But their temperaments were widely different. C—never joked, and rarely smiled. If a laughable story was told, he listened silently, thought over it an hour, and then began to argue against its probability. If the morning was cloudy, he was sure of a storm before night; if the harness broke, he was positive we would be detained all day; if the coachmar, drove fast, he knew the man was drunk, and that our necks would be broken.
